This past week, we continued to explore our routines and expressing our feelings. We also learned the season of Fall has started! We read books about apples and apple parts.

The children were invited to come to the Art Center and make apple prints using paint for the first time. The children also got to work out their fine motor skills by ripping Fall color paper and gluing them onto a Fall tree.

The children got to share their first Family Engagement at our children by showing their feelings poster and using their words to describe their feelings in the picture.

Next week we will be wrapping up our unit on the classroom by exploring more toys in the centers, as well as focusing on some basic counting skills.
