Week of

February 28th – March 4th

Special Announcements

Pre-K registration is now open on MySchools.nyc. ALL REGISTRATIONS for Pre-k for All must be done through MySchools.nyc just as you did when you registered your child for 3K. Registration closes on 3/18/22.

This week we continued to explore our unit on Buildings by focusing on buildings. We reviewed different types of buildings and spoke about what makes a good building.

We read The Three Little Pigs and the Somewhat Bad Wolf by Mark Teague. We spoke about what materials could be used to make a good building, such as wood, brick, and so on.

In the Art Center, the children had an opportunity to create different types of buildings using 3D materials from recycled items, such as paper towel roll cans and drink containers.

We also explored different types of materials by looking at, feeling it, and discussing our experience with it.

The children were encouraged to make a blueprint of what a building that they could create would look like and then used that blueprint in the Block Center to create it.

Next week we will be finishing our unit on Buildings by focusing on construction.
