This week we continued our unit on Caring by focusing on how we can care for ourselves. We brainstormed various ways that we can show care for ourselves, such as clean up our own mess, dress ourselves, and cleaning ourselves when we get dirty.

We read a variety of books about how we can care for ourselves. The children had an opportunity to compare and contrast how caring for themselves is the same and/or different from when they were babies.

In the Art Center, the children had an opportunity to update their self portraits. They also drew pictures on how they were the same and/or different from when they were a baby.

The children practiced doing self care things throughout the day, such as washing hands without reminders, unpacking their school bags, putting their rest time materials away by themselves, and trying to open their own meal time things by themselves.

Next week we will be continuing our unit on Care by focusing on how we can care for the world.
